

*And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.
(Psalms 50:15)*

The God Whose is the cattle on a thousand hills, Who needs not our "bulls and goats," tells us what He delights in: "call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver you and ye shall glorify me."

Knowing this, the "day of trouble" may be a welcome occasion to bow the knee and make our desperate cry to the One Who is pleased to have His dependent children looking to Him. We will not fail to glorify Him, for He will not fail to deliver.
